

YOUR LIFE ON THE 6:00 NEWS

What if, at the end of each day, your life—the good and the bad—was broadcast for all to see?

On May 10, Vance Lewis will be delving into this scenario and exploring what our lives might look like if we knew our actions were going to be put “out there” for review.

- Would it change how we treat others?
- Would it change how we treat ourselves?
- Would it change how we treat God?

Please join us. “Faith at Work” is an opportunity to get together with others over the lunch hour, enjoy some great food...and perhaps grow deeper in your faith.

OUR SPEAKER

Vance Lewis, Promotions Manager for KOAM-TV and KFJX-TV, oversees the public relations and public service activities of both stations. He graduated from Pittsburg State University in 1984 with a degree in communications and began his career at KKOW-AM Radio in Pittsburg. In the early '90s Vance was part of the team that launched radio station KOCD 105.3 and was known on air as “Rooster” of the “Rotten and Rooster Sunrise Surprise” morning show.

Vance transitioned to television as a programming and promotions assistant and worked his way to his current position. From 2001 to 2004 he left the world of media and learned some valuable life lessons working in factory production at General Mills.

Married for 23 years, Vance and his wife, Allison, have two children, Trevor and Matthew, and a spoiled Beagle puppy named Wrigley.

In the community, Vance serves as acting secretary on the Joplin Convention & Visitors Bureau Advisory Board, is a member of the public relations team for Ronald McDonald House of the Four States (where he earned the “Heart of the House” award in 2009), and volunteers for March of Dimes. He also serves on the Columbus Unified High School Vocational Business Advisory Board, is a member of the Safe Teen Coalition of The Alliance of Southwest Missouri, and has completed training as a Stephen minister. He enjoys sporting events, photography, reading, travel and hanging with the family.
